An 'accomplished junior who is highly sought after for his deep knowledge of civil liberties and human rights law. "A big brain, he's a deep thinker and also a very good speaker." "He's really broken through in the field of civil liberties and human rights, not least because of his wonderful personality." (Chambers & Partners, 2017)

"He's extremely bright and very able, a good all-rounder". (Chambers & Partners, 2016)

"He's very earnest, very conscientious and extremely thorough, and he has a real sense of the legal landscape in a case." (Chambers & Partners, 2015)

Biography

Julius Komorowski's core strength is in administrative law with distinct experience of the business of the Inner House of the Court of Session.

During his first spell at the Bar (2008-2011), he built up an extensive practice involving regular appearances against the UK Government. He also acted for and against local authorities and appearing against the Scottish Ministers in matters concerning mental health and prisons. In the last year of that spell, he appeared in four Inner House cases that were all reported in Session Cases. In that same year, his submissions in the Outer House were said to be 'carefully presented' (AI (Pakistan), Pet [2012] CSOH 7, Lord Kinclaven at para [41]), 'carefully presented and quite sophisticated' (TW (Eritrea), Pet [2011] CSOH 88, Lord Brodie at para [18]) and 'clear and careful' (LE (Turkey), Pet [2011] Imm AR 245, Lord Emslie at para [4]).

From 2011-2013 he was working as Law Clerk to Lord Gill (as Lord Justice-Clerk and then as Lord President). Julius assisted Lord Gill with his judicial duties by carrying out legal research on cases being heard by him and drafting text for inclusion in judicial Opinions. He also occasionally assisted other judges. In this role Julius was exposed to the full breadth of the work of the Inner House, including commercial law, public procurement and employment law. He gained a particular knowledge of agricultural law and valuation for rating.

Since his return he has appeared regularly in the Court of Session as standing junior counsel to the Advocate General for the UK Government. He has been instructed in matters concerning immigration, social security and tax. He has also acted on behalf of local authorities. He continues to appear often in the Inner House, and has appeared twice in the UK Supreme Court. He has become Editor of Session Cases, is a legal member of the First-tier Tribunal for Scotland and has also been appointed to the Fitness to Practice panel of the Nursing and Midwifery Council.

Julius can accept instructions to appear against the Scottish Ministers, or to appear for or against local authorities. He might be able to accept some instructions to appear against other UK Government departments.

Julius is the presenter of "Pod's law", a podcast on legal subject matters.
